JANESVILLE, MONDAY, APRIL 14.

STATE OF WISCONSIN.

A PROCLAMATION.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

In conformity with law, I, William D. Hoard, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do designate

Wednesday, April 30th Next, as Arbor Day, and recommend that all public schools and colleges of the state observe the same by suitable exercises, having for their object the imparting of knowledge of horticulture, and the adornment of schools and public grounds.

It is testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the great seal of the state of Wisconsin to be hereunto affixed, Done at the capitol, in the city of Madison, this 15th day of March, A. D. 1890.

WILLIAM D. HOARD.

By the Governor:

ERNEST G. TAYLOR, Secretary of State.

SAMUEL J. RANDALL.

Samuel J. Randall, representative in congress from the Third district of Pennsylvania, comprising a portion of the city of Philadelphia, died in Washington on Sunday morning. He had been in ill health for several months, and gradually grew weaker from time to time, so that his death was not unexpected. There is a touch of deep pathos in the following lines giving an account of Mr. Randall's last hours:

Mr. Randall's death was painless and he was unconscious during the greater part of his last hours. There were intervals when from the intelligent and steady gaze which he directed at those about him he must have been conscious, but he seemed unable to speak, and the word "mother" was the only one he uttered for hours preceding his death. This word he murmured so low that the only one who recognized it was his daughter, who was kneeling just behind him.

Around the bedside were gathered the family, the physician and Postmaster General Wamaker, who had kept a constant watch over the dying man during the night. A few moments before his death he had opened his eyes, and looking tenderly at his wife who knelt over him, said in a low tone, "Mother," a word instinct with all the fondest recollections of their long and happy married life, and by which he always called his wife when alone. In short, the family were near. He looked into her eyes as if he were about to say something more, but he seemed to have no strength left, and in a few moments he had passed away.

Samuel J. Randall was one of the most prominent democratic leaders in congress. He was born in Philadelphia 62 years ago, and for a number of years was engaged in mercantile pursuits. He was a man of fine abilities, which in early life commanded the attention of the public, and in 1862 he was elected to the Thirty-eighth congress, and was elected for each subsequent congress, making a continuous congressional service of twenty-eight years, longer than any other member of the present house. Mr. Randall was always a partisan democrat, not with his partisanship was that disinterested of political motives, purity of public and private life, and meanness of spirit in dealing with his political enemies, that he won and always retained the respect of the public. He was so representative in his character, and so wise in his statesmanship, that he became truly "a man of the people," so that when he ran for congress the last time in a district of nearly 175,000, there were but 112 votes cast against him.

Congress can ill afford to lose a man like Mr. Randall. It does not make any difference to which party such men belong, they are helpful to our political system, and are an honor to the American congress.

THE BIBLE CASE.

A new feature of the Bible case has been brought to public notice through the effort of President Albee, of the Oakbrook normal school. A dispatch from that city on Saturday contained this information: "According to the statement of one of the judges of the supreme court, the Bible can be read in the public schools of Wisconsin notwithstanding the recent decision of the supreme court in the celebrated Edgerton case. It was generally believed when the supreme court rendered the opinion in that case that the Bible had no place in the public schools. It was believed that the ruling meant the banishment of the good Good Book from the educational institutions of the state. As soon as a copy of the decision was received here President Albee, of the normal school of this city, addressed a letter of inquiry to a supreme court justice seeking information on the point.

"President Albee to-day received an answer to his letter. In it the judge (whose name is withheld by President Albee) said that the decision in the Edgerton case related to the reading of the Bible only as a school text-book, and that it was read in any other manner than as a text book the reading of the same was lawful and proper. The defining of the decision of the judge, whom it is said looked into the matter as closely as any member of the supreme court, and knows full well of what he speaks, causes a stir here, and doubtless will throughout the state."

The dispatch further says that President Albee will continue to read the Bible at the opening of the school as he has done for several years, and that other school principals will continue to follow his example. If this can be done, what point has the supreme court gained by their decision? The public understand that in the Edgerton case, the dispute was not whether the Bible could be read as a text book, but whether it could be read at all.

It looks as if the judge who wrote President Albee wants to do a little crawling, and since he has heard from the people it is no wonder.

SWEPT INTO THE WATER.

Many Lives Reported Lost in an East Saginaw Disaster.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., April 14.—The steamer Handy Boy, a small river boat, left here for Bay City at 12:15 yesterday afternoon with about thirty-five passengers and crew aboard. The river is bankful and nearly a quarter of a mile wide.

Just before reaching the Flint & Pere Marquette railroad bridge, the draw to which was open, the steamer sheered sharply to port and being under full headway could not be checked even if the attempted had been made, and she crashed into the span of the bridge, sweeping away all her upper works and throwing a number of persons into the river, where the current was very swift, while others caught upon the bridge timbers and saved themselves.

The boat was held fast to the bridge. There was, of course, great confusion, those on board struggling to escape death from the cold waters of the river or the crashing timber. A number of people, among them four men and three ladies, were seen in the river a moment later. Three men clung to the wreckage and were picked up by a fisherman some distance below, while one who was clinging to a piece of wreckage was seen to let go his hold and sink. It is impossible at this writing to give a full list of the lost as no bodies have been recovered. Those reported lost are:

Mrs. CATHARINE NEVINE, an old lady. Two ladies and one man whose names are not known.

The injured are:

DAVID BLISS, D. T. PACKER, Miss DELLA ROCK, J. W. THOMPSON, RUDOLPH WERGER, scalded.

The passengers injured will all recover. George Lytle, engineer, and Edward Trump, who had charge of the wheel, were arrested. Capt. Dolson skipped out and can not be found. The accident is said to be the result of gross carelessness.

SHE GOT HER RIGHTS.

The Daughter of a Virginian by a Negro Woman Wins a Lawsuit.

Richmond, Va., April 14.—A curious case has been decided by the Supreme Court of Appeals of this State. Under this decision Alice Davis, wife of a negro attorney of Washington, becomes the legal owner of $10,000 worth of real estate which she inherited from her father, Mr. Strangle, a well-to-do and respected citizen of Lynchburg. Alice was the natural daughter of Mr. Strangle, and her mother was a negro.

The girl was a half-breed, treated as one of the family by Mr. and Mrs. Strangle. Her father sent her to Washington, where she received a liberal education and qualified herself as a teacher, which calling she pursued several years.

The father always promised he would liberally provide for the girl, and his wife, upon her death-bed, made him pledge himself to do so. The father gave Alice some property in Washington and $10,000 worth of real estate in Virginia. When a married daughter found this out she and her husband worked on Mr. Strangle until he finally persuaded him to give up the property. She did it with reluctance. Mr. Strangle gave her $250 and a week later he died. Alice was not provided for in the will.

The deed of reconveyance was set aside by the Supreme court because of undue influence.

HOTEL FIRE AT DETROIT.

Loss of $125,000 in the Plankinton House—No Fatalities Reported.

DETROIT, Mich., April 14.—Fire last evening gutted the fourth and fifth floors of the Hotel Plankinton and the lower floors of the hotel were seriously damaged by water. At 8 o'clock a chambermaid named Antoinette Pabernin rushed from her room on the fourth floor of the hotel enveloped in flames, having overturned a lamp.

The flames quickly spread to the fifth floor and through the halls of the fourth, completely gutting that part of the building. The fire also descended to the second shaft to the office and lower floors, but was extinguished before doing great damage.

The damage by water where the flames did not reach is heavy. Loss on the hotel furnishings is put at $50,000; insurance, $10,000. Loss on building, $75,000; insurance, $20,000.

SUBSIDENCE OF THE FLOOD.

Suffering Has Been Relieved, but the Damage Is Heavy.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 14.—Parties arriving from Arkansas City report the water subsiding at that point, although trains are not yet running into the town. There are no cases of actual suffering, the generous contributions from surrounding towns having afforded relief where it is needed.

The loss to property is heavy and will aggregate many thousands of dollars. An extensive area of farming land has been rendered unfit for cultivation, and should no crop be grown on it this year the effects will be serious on the cotton-growing interests. The sheriffs of Desha, Marion, and Phillips counties have telegraphed Gov. Eagle saying that no tents from the government are needed.

NEW LONDON, WIS., FLOODED.

The Fox River Out of Its Banks and Streets Under Water.

OSHKOSH, Wis., April 14.—Reports from New London are to the effect that the Wolf river has overflowed its banks and that adjacent streets are flooded. The recent rains have melted the snow at the head waters of the river and its tributaries, and great volume of water has come down in the last twenty-four hours. Persons along the river banks were compelled to move their goods to second stories. The water is now falling.

SWEPT INTO THE WATER.

The Daughter of a Virginian by a Negro Woman Wins a Lawsuit at Richmond.

ALLEGED CONFESSION MADE BY ISAAC B. SAWTELLE.

His Brother Hiram Deceived From Home for Money and Killed in a Struggle—Crimes.

Boston, Mass., April 14.—A morning paper prints what it claims is a confession made to his counsel by Isaac B. Sawtelle of Boston, now in jail at Dover, N. H., awaiting trial for the murder of his brother Hiram, whose mutilated body was found buried in the woods in Lebanon, Me., last February. In this alleged confession Isaac says that he and Hiram's wife were parties to a conspiracy to lure Hiram to an abandoned camp in Lebanon, Me., where he was to be held captive by the notorious Dr. Blood and the ex-convict "Jack" (who have been suspected of having guilty knowledge, at least, of the murder) until he should relinquish in writing all claim to the estate left by his father.

Isaac deceived Hiram to Rochester, N. H., and drove him to a point near the camp, where he was turned over to "Jack." Isaac claims that his connection with the case ended at this point, and that he did not know of Hiram's death until he received a letter while in Portland telling him that it had been necessary to put Hiram out of the way, and that each of the trio must look out for himself.

This so-called confession makes most of the evidence in possession of the government accord with this theory of Hiram's taking off, and claims that the murder was committed in Maine by Dr. Blood and the convict "Jack."

He said he had had Dr. Blood's own handwriting for the proof that Hiram was killed in a struggle during which more than intended violence was used by either him or "Jack" to prevent Hiram from gaining his liberty.

The conspiracy, he said, "was planned by Blood, assisted to by, directly furthered by his companion, and indirectly by a friend in Lowell." According to Isaac, Blood was to get Hiram's taking off, and claims that he (Isaac) gave him $100 cash and a check for $400, payable in weekly installments of $25.

He claims that Mr. Richardson of Lowell, at whose house he stopped on his way to Rochester, N. H., to meet his niece, gave him the pills which he afterward gave the girl, but the pills were harmless, only causing a sickness which Isaac gave an excuse to decoy Hiram to Rochester, and that he (Isaac) told Richardson of the intended operations against Hiram.

Isaac says that Blood wrote him a letter at Rochester giving him instructions to drive from Rochester to an old house near Springvale, Maine, where he would find a person to whom he was to pay the installment of the note then due. The letter also requested him to bring a spade.

He drove to the house on the Tuesday before the murder, where he found "Jack," who requested him to bring an ax with which to cut wood for fires, as he said Blood and he were going to be prepared to remain all winter. If necessary, to get Hiram to sign the paper giving up all claims to the property.

"Jack" also wanted a spade and pick-axe, which he said would have a part in the persecution of Hiram, but as Isaac says he supposed, for occult effect only. On Wednesday Isaac says he drove Hiram to the same spot, where "Jack" met him and told Isaac to go for a doctor while he drove Hiram to the house where he expected to find his sick daughter.

Isaac left the carriage and "Jack" returned to him about an hour and a half later. Isaac then drove "Jack" about three miles up the Springvale road, where "Jack" left the carriage with a bag which he had in behind and which Isaac thinks contained Hiram's clothes and head. He claims he did not see Dr. Blood at Springvale, nor has he seen him or "Jack" since the disappearance of Hiram.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IN DETROIT.

An Old Man Kills His Wife and Commits Suicide by Hanging.

DETROIT, Mich., April 14.—A frame cottage at 253 Third street, this city, has just been the scene of a horrible murder and suicide. Alexander Cuddy, aged 62, and wife, aged 39, resided there. It has been known for some time that Cuddy and his wife lived unhappily together and Saturday night people who passed the house heard loud and angry words, but as such occurrences were common in the neighborhood nothing was thought of the matter.

Yesterday morning Herbert Cuddy, a son of Alexander by a former wife, went to the house, but could not gain admittance. He then broke open the back door and a horrible sight met his gaze. His father was hanging from a rafter and at his feet lay the disfigured body of the wife. Near by was found an ax besmeared with blood. A deep gash on the woman's left forehead showed how she had met her fate.

Cuddy left a rambling letter addressed "To the press," the gist of which was that he was jealous of his wife, that they lived unhappily together, and that he thought it best that they should both be dead.

Murdered by a Robber.

ASHVILLE, N. C., April 14.—A horrible murder has been committed three miles west of this city. Harriet Williams, a colored woman and a former slave of Senator Vance's family, was found unconscious upon the floor of her room. She died two hours later. Seven terrible wounds were discovered on her body and three on her head, having been inflicted with an ax. The murder was evidently the work of a would-be robber.

A Chicago Painter's Deadly Knife.

BROOKFIELD, Ill., April 14.—H. T. Lewin, a saloonkeeper, and Thomas Russell, a Chicago scene and decorative painter, quarreled in front of Lewin's place on Center street. Lewin was very dangerously, possibly fatally, cut by Russell. His wound is a gash fully a foot in length extending downward from the ribs and across the abdomen. Russell was arrested. He claims that he used the knife in self-defense.

Janeville has gone clean "data" over the prospects of two new furniture factories. Perhaps such exuberance is excusable in a town where three men and a dog make a procession. (Rockford Register.)

The Register's man must have visited Janeville during the last political campaign, when the democrats had their "blow out."

The last and one of the best of suppers served by the ladies of Court Street M. E. church, will be given on Wednesday evening of this week, April 16th. Landlord Johnson, of the Park hotel, is making extensive improvements on his popular hotel. The dining room is being repainted and repapered and everything is as new and bright as a new dollar. The bar room is also receiving the same treatment, and the front porch is having a new hardwood floor laid. Landlord Johnson is never satisfied unless he is "on the improve."

As mystery seems to be the watchword just now, and lots sell better out of sight and unseen, the ladies of the Rectory Society have decided to sell their oranges in much the same way. The tree loaded with fruit will be on exhibition from five o'clock until eight, and during that time the fruit will be sold, the price asked being attached to each orange, prices ranging from 10 cents to $1.00. Every orange contains the full value asked, so let no one confuse this with any lottery scheme.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The Salvation Army Case Decided by the Court To-day.

In the circuit court this morning the case of the city of Janeville against Fred Little was argued and the judgment of the municipal court reversed. The defendant was convicted in that court of a violation of a city ordinance forbidding the making of unnecessary noise by hooting, yelling, carrying unfired flags, beating drums, etc., and the case was appealed. The court held that the city ordinance which gives to the city marshal discretion to permit or not, parade with music etc. was void.

J. B. Doe, Jr., appeared for the prosecution and Wm. G. Wheeler, Esq. for the defendant.

The trial of the action of Thomas Kyle against Maria Fehey was then resumed and is still in progress at three o'clock.

A NOVEL SPECIAL TRAIN.

Loaded with Harvesting Machinery with Brass Band Accompaniment.

At noon to-morrow our citizens will have an opportunity of seeing a great novelty in the way of a special train of cars loaded with harvesting machinery (sawtooth for the great wheat fields of Minnesota and North Dakota). The train is chartered by the Deering Manufacturing Co., of Chicago, and will be drawn by two of the heaviest locomotives of the Northwestern railway company. A full brass band accompanies the train the entire distance. Railway men say the cars and engines are decorated in an elaborate manner, and will make short stops at all the principal stations on the line of the Northwestern road. It will reach Janeville at noon to-morrow. Our people will be given an opportunity to hear the band play by going to the Northwestern depot at that hour.

A NOBLE STRANGER.

It Will Open a Week's Engagement by the May Bretonne Company.

"The Little Snubnose," May Bretonne, and her company will open a return engagement of one week at Lippin's Opera House to-night. The bill will be "The Noble Stranger," one of their strongest plays, and they should have a full house. This is the same company which closed a week's engagement here a few days ago, and they are a most excellent company—the best in fact that has been here this season. The repertoire consists of a very good class of performances, and the company are exceedingly well balanced.

Mr. G. Harris Edon, the comedian, is a very funny man, and his antics are worth the price of admission—10, 20 and 30 cents. Mr. O. E. Hallam is also a bright actor and takes his part as natural as life. Of Miss Bretonne, nothing need be said, as during her previous engagement she made many friends by her cleverness.

THE BOY DETECTIVE.

Another Small House for the F. K. Wallace Company.

The F. K. Wallace company closed their engagement at Lippin's opera house Saturday evening. The prices of admission had been put down to ten, twenty and thirty cents. Even these "cut rates" did not fill the house. On the contrary the people in the audience were conspicuous for their absence. The company is a strong one, and gives a good performance of the kind, but the character of the yellow covered literature which bears similar names to these plays, Mr. Wallace is a very clever Irish comedian, and kept the audience in good humor, and all the parts were well taken, and for the class of performances it was first class.

OBITUARY.

[Mrs. Margaret Brooks.

Mrs. Margaret Brooks, widow of Richard Brooks, died at her home, No. 102 North High street to-day, after long and patient suffering. At one time she seemed better, and her friends thought she was on the way to recovery, but her disease, pneumonia, took a new turn and she immediately grew worse and died as above stated. She was the widow of "Sailor Dick," the well-known showman who for many years was connected with Barr Robin's circus. She was an earnest hard-working woman and had supported herself and children for some time by keeping boarders. She leaves three children to mourn her death. They are now orphans, their father dying in Chicago some time ago.

The funeral will be held from St. Patrick's church Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

The ladies of the Rectory Society have always been famous for their excellent success in cooking, but on Tuesday evening all the dishes will be benefited by the instructions of the cooking school. So come and taste how good everything will be.

IT IS EXPLAINED.

1. The pupil must be present every session of the school during the term.

2. The pupil must not be tardy during the term.

Citizens will remember that Sir Ls Grippie held sway during the early part of the term, and from his decision there is no appeal."

SHALL THE CITY GROW?

And Soon Become the Thriving Industrial City of Interior Wisconsin.

A FEW TIMELY HINTS TO CHRONIC CROAKERS.

Let the Good Work Proceed—What Helps One Helps All in the City's Increased Wealth.

It is amusing, as well as disgusting, to hear, now and then, the objections made against the syndicate or individual, who set in motion the plan for booming the city some ten days ago.

There is a limited class of mortals in Janeville as well as in other cities, whose bump of suspicion is the most prominent part of their anatomy. To their vivid imagination everything in the way of an investment, except bonds and mortgages, is a scheme, conceived in sin and born of the devil.

Let them talk: "Pig in a bag."

"Money making scheme."

"Who knows but the lots are in a frog pond?"

These and similar insults are occasionally heard, but the Gazette is glad to note that the sentiment is confined to a very limited class, while enthusiasm and general rejoicing is heard on every hand.

Is there occasion for criticism or suspicion on the part of any one?

Most emphatically NO.

What are the facts concerning the new enterprise that has created more enthusiasm than the city has experienced in ten years?

Simply this: Some man or company of men locate within the city limits, where the Gazette knows not and cares less, a tract of land of say 200 acres costing at a low figure $20,000, of this land sufficient ground is donated, say five acres, to two manufacturing concerns, and buildings erected to cost $15,000. Streets are to be made, sidewalks put down, side tracks put in at a cost on a low estimate of $10,000 more.

What does the investment represent?

In round numbers $50,000.

What are the assets?

Proceeds of 25 acres sold in lots—$20,000 and 170 acres of land. Suppose the open proposition is accepted and during the next five years, other factories employing 500 men locate in the new addition, that means an investment of $50,000 more.

But you say the land has doubled in value.

Suppose it has, who is the loser? In fact, who is not the gainer?

Put in operation factories employing from 600 to 800 men on any tract of land within the city limits and every dollar's worth of real estate in the city will increase in value from twenty-five to one hundred per cent.

When a city can raise twelve hundred acres of tobacco and pasture a thousand cows within the city limits, it is high time that something was done to increase the acreage, and increase the value.

Imagine half a dozen busy factories, employing a thousand men, occupying half as many new homes on the flat acres from Monterey. Cast your eye over towards the pumping station and count the dozen new factories and scores of new houses dotting the river bank where the slaughter houses used to thrive; take the belt line road and from the reservoir try and discover some familiar land mark. Old Buena Vista has yielded to the spirit of enterprise, and the tidy streets and well kept lawns, evidence the thrift and prosperity of the numerous factories that stretch away toward the river.

That tell tower that looms up off toward the cemetery, and these rows of neat white cottages indicate the location and extensive interests of the dairying and condensing industries.

The census of 1900 has just been completed, and the record shows a population of 25,000.

All this, and more, is possible, if we cease to croak and continue to work.

Death of Dr. J. L. Brenton.

Dr. J. L. Brenton died at his home in Beloit at noon on Sunday, aged 70 years. He had been ill for several weeks. Dr. Brenton had lived in Beloit since 1864 and was widely known. He was a member of the Wisconsin Medical Association and American Medical Association. He was a stalwart republican and had a good war record, and when he died was one of the pension examining board of this district. He was appointed first assistant surgeon of the One Hundred and Fiftieth Ohio infantry in 1892 and the same year was made the surgeon of the Eighty-Eighth Ohio infantry. In 1893 he was made surgeon-in-chief of the First brigade, Third division, Second Army corps, under General Hancock. In the winter of '93 and '94 he was made the surgeon-in-chief of the Second division, under General Gibbon. After being mustered out of the service, he was appointed inspector of United States hospitals with rank of colonel of cavalry, soon resigning this position because of sickness. His family consists of a wife and four children, all alive.

A WOMAN'S OPINION.

Which Tells a Story of Interest to Other Women.

"I honestly believe," said one of our women recently, "that that magazine has done more for me to make my life easier, my home brighter, than any other thing in life," and she pointed to a copy of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL of Philadelphia, that was lying on the table.

"Why," you ask? "Because it thoroughly understands woman, and tells her just what she wants to know. If any child is sick, for example, something that I have read in its pages will come up to me. I have a moderate purse, and my dress like those of my daughters must do long and good service. That magazine told me the secret. To provide three meals every day, and give variety to the table is no easy matter to a woman. Through the Journal's recipes and menu the problem was often solved for me. You see my flower garden? Everything about it came to me from it. I am fond of crocheting and fancy work. The prettiest things I have ever made were told me by that magazine. When I am tired, I turn to its stories and romances and am always sure of finding something good in every number. My children are delighted in the department it has for them. My daughters will read its 'Side-Talks With Girls' as they will a novel. Even the kitchen girl finds asks for the magazines each month when the family is through with it, and now we give it to our minister for Dr. Talmage's monthly articles. You see what a simple magazine can do, what a pleasure it can give, and what a help it can be, if it is of the right sort," and thus was paid to the Ladies' Home Journal one of the highest tributes I have ever heard uttered in behalf of a single magazine.

Was it deserved, you ask? Ask any of the 500,000 women who now read this same magazine each month. It is a pleasure seldom experienced by an editor or a reader to see a magazine so thoroughly as to use every one of our woman readers a magazine so good and helpful as The Ladies' Home Journal. In every respect, it may be said to be the best periodical to-day that a woman can have in her home—a magazine that will tell her more, that will benefit her more, and give her more sincere satisfaction than any periodical we can, at this moment, name.

SENTENCES FROM "JUDGE."

It is easier to fall into a pit than it is to climb out.

If there presupposes love, contempt as surely annihilates it.

It is not an end of all things if we can only hold on long enough to see the result.

No disappointment can be quite so intolerable as disappointment in one's self.

It does not soothe or encourage a man to be confronted with his own philosophy in moments of despondency.

It is the spark within the bosom which warms and brightens, more than any reflection from outward circumstances.

All things come round to him who will wait, though the chances are that in the meantime he will lose all appetite for them.

The workings of jealousy are subtle and insidious, and until one has been warned by the sting and the pain of the nettle can it be brushed.

Life is a chase in which every known ideal is brought to the pursuing hounds which warms and brightens, more than any reflection from outward circumstances.

Still it is well to idealize; a thousand times it is well that the soul never loses this faculty, and the last ideal is as potent in its influences as the first.
